

PHP Magento Developer

Salary: £26,000 + depending on experience

Absolute has been established for over 18 years. We are a branding and web development agency with an impressive and varied client base. We are looking for an experienced and talented developer to join our web development team.

Working in a collaborative and creative environment, this role involves:

- Interpreting requirement briefs and specifications
- Designing and developing systems, websites and underlying databases using HTML PHP, MySQL, CSS and JavaScript
- Specialize in the development of Magento websites
- Carrying out system testing and documentation
- Liaising with clients and delivering training sessions

You will have a comprehensive understanding of the Magento framework and be able to generate sites based on a bespoke design created by our web designer. You will be able to advise account managers on the best way to implement client requirements and take advantage of existing Magento modules and/or built-in functionality.

Essential to your success as a PHP Magento Developer you will possess the following:

- A high level of PHP and MySQL web development experience in a commercial (ideally agency) environment
- Excellent XHTML / CSS skills (hand-coded)
- A deep understanding of the Magento framework, including:
 - Payment / merchant gateway integration
 - Bespoke design skinning
 - Future-proof implementation
 - Module installation and customisation
 - Testing & training site administrators
- Strong JavaScript/AJAX knowledge

It would be advantageous if you possess Linux administration experience and familiarity with the development of content management systems.

You will possess excellent written and verbal communication skills and good organisational and planning skills. Experience of providing technical support and/or training to a non-technical audience would also be beneficial.

You will enjoy working in a creative environment and want to work with a talented design team in order to create cutting edge websites.
